Floater – Nursery Division

Horace Mann School is a coeducational, college preparatory independent day school for students from Nursery through grade 12. The School seeks to stretch the imagination, intellect and insight of its students while developing the moral characteristics that impart identity and purpose. We recognize as our core values: the Life of the Mind, Mature Behavior, Mutual Respect, a Secure and Healthful Environment, and a Balance between Individual Achievement and a Caring Community. These core values guide our decision-making and govern the implementation of our curriculum and programs across all divisions of Horace Mann School.

The Horace Mann Nursery Division, which is located on Manhattan's Upper East Side, serves children between the ages of three and six. We offer a warm, nurturing environment where children explore, discover and investigate. Our program is rich in experiences that draw on the children's abilities and interests while stimulating new learning and curiosity. An integrated curriculum and hands on approach is used to foster problem solving, nurture social-emotional growth and encourage intellectual curiosity.

The Nursery Division seeks a full-time Floater to assist in classrooms and provide individualized support to children as needed. The ideal candidate must have experience with young children and a general background in Early Childhood Education. Floating teachers assist lead teachers in maintaining a safe environment, facilitating explorations and utilizing a variety of instructional techniques. We strive to meet the needs of each individual child by implementing support strategies and differentiating instruction. A great deal of flexibility is required to meet the various daily needs of the division. Floaters may be called upon for a number reasons including extra support in classrooms, on field trips, and as a substitute for absent teachers.

Interested candidates should submit a detailed resume, including all teaching and non-teaching related experience and cover letter to: employment@horacemann.org.
